Some Earmarks of a Succes ful Man"

INTRO.

Rather an embarrassing moment
"Shall we let the crowd enjoy themselves a little longer, or shad we better have your speech now?"

I advertised my subject tobe "Some Earmarks of a Succe sful man". I might more definitely have stated, "Three earmarks of a succesful man".

I. The first is AN EDUCATED MIND.

Prov. 24:5 A wise man is strong; yea, a man of knowledge increaseth strength.

1. Increased earning power
$25,000 $65,000

2. Increased moral power. criminals
Out of 22,000 prisoners in N.Y. prisons
4 were college graduates
7% high school education
25% had finished grammar school
65% had only a primary school training or none at all.

3. Social power
"Who's Who" in America, mentioning only those who have distingusihed themselves in their respective fields of labor.
72% of them had college training
50% college graduates

Less than 1% of American men are college graduates, but this 1% has given us
55% of our presidents
33% of our members of Congress
70% of our Sustices of the Supreme Court

4. Increased power of appreciation
Extensive acquaintance with the outstanding personalities
UNderstanding of the great events of history and of the trends of the times
A knowledge of nature and of the arts and sciences

When one's tastes are thus cultivated, his interests are not only multiplied, but centered on the big worth-while things of life.
